MONEY, MONEY!

Money is scarce we know; but scarce as it is people should not neglect to pay for their paper, advertising and job work. It is impossible to run a printing office without money. We hope therefore, our patrons will give strict attention to this notice, and send us the amount due without delay. It is our intention to send a bill within the next four weeks to every man who owes us, whether the amount be much or little, and we hope every one will respond gracefully and punctually.

AMENDE HONORABLE.

"Strange what difference there should be
'Twixt tweedeldum and tweedeldee."

The Watchman of the 14th inst., in an article over the caption of "Mean" finds fault with us and grows irate over the report of his speech delivered in the Railroad meeting held in this place on Saturday evening the 8th inst. This is all wrong Mr. Meek. What was given in our report of your remarks was not intended as anything more than the substance. We did not wish to be understood as giving them verbatim, yet any one by comparing our report of his speech with his own will see that they are identical in substance. Mr. Meek should bear in mind that like Milton, McCauley, and others of the world's choicest spirits and great men, he does not speak as plainly and distinctly as he writes, and for some reason his articulation on the occasion referred to was more than usually incoherent.

We did not intend to do him any injustice and are glad to see by comparing our version of his speech with his own that we have not done so. We waited upon Mr. Meek, and requested him to write out his speech, he declined to do so, and we, if we reported his speech at all was compelled to trust to our memory. We reported him among other things as saying that he had in his pocket a letter from Mr. Miller, the President of the road, stating that what money was subscribed when added to what was'nt would be amply sufficient to complete a broad gauge road" &c.

Mr. Meek calls us "mean" for this and then says "what we did say was to the effect that we had in our possession letters from Mr. Miller, &c * * * Stating that with the amount of money already subscribed as a basis and the privilege of mortgaging it to the extent asked (what was'nt subscribed) that there would be sufficient money," &c. Can our readers see wherein we did Mr. Meek injustice?

INDEPENDENT TICKET.

As will be seen, our correspondent "A Democrat from Potter," appears to be considerably dissatisfied with the "new departure," and the way things are running generally in the Democratic party in this county and suggest the formation of a Union or Independent ticket composed of good men of both parties. We have no doubt of the sincerity of our correspondent and believe that his suggestion if it could be carried out would result favorably to the tax-payers and working men of our county; but we are not prepared, to fully endorse or recommend it at the present writing.

Next week we will publish a communication which first appeared in the Clinton Republican, bearing upon this subject, at which time we will also give our own views in full.

The President Judges throughout the State will receive a salary of $4,000 for the ensuing year, commencing the 1st day of June. The associate judges will receive in lieu of the salary now allowed by law five dollars for every day they may be employed in the discharge of their official duties. The salary of no associate judge shall be less than three hundred dollars. The judges of the Supreme Court have had their salaries raised to $7,000 a year.

Revised Census Statistics.—The latest revised tables at the Census Office shows the following aggregate population of the States and organized Territories: White 33,581,680; colored 4,879,323; Indian, 25,733; Japanese, 55; Chinese, 63,196; total, 48,549,987.

TRUCKLING TO THE MOB.

THE MAYOR TO THE ORANGEMEN.

Just a week before the day appointed for the parade of the Orange societies, Mayor Hall addressed the following letter to John J. Bond, Esq., the head of the Orangemen. It foreshadows the order signed by Superintendent Kelso, which evidently proceeded from the same pen:

Executive Department,
City Hall,
New York, July 6th, 1871.

John J. Bond, Esq., G. M. L. O. I.:

Dear Sir.—From your letter to the Superintendent of Police, from your explanation to me, and from a letter which you addressed to the Times I learn that an order or association of individuals, over which you are the chief, propose to celebrate, by a street procession and public picnic, the victory achieved in 1690 by William III., one king of England, over James II., another king. Similar public celebrations in the country wherein the events happened have always been attended by public disorders. Breaches of the peace have several times occurred in Canada and in the United States during celebrations of a like import. Last summer serious affrays in this city grew out of the public procession and picnic when participated in by your order. You seem to apprehend new disturbances this year on account of the proposed celebration, and I think I am justified by your written and published statements in inferring your own opinion to be that public disorder must necessarily result from your intended action, because of the religious as well as ancient political opposition to the event celebrated. Assemblages of any kind in places of public access, and public street processions of every character, have never become matters of popular right. In accordance, however, with the operations of free institutions they are generally permitted, and usually enjoy by popular assent much freedom of action, although often submitted to at considerable sacrifice of public comfort. They, therefore, become subjects of police regulation and supervision. If not an impossible, it is nevertheless a delicate task for the authorities to decide when this regulation and supervision shall begin, or how far it shall extend. The approximate rule seems to be that the greatest good and security of the greatest number should be consulted in the decision. Your proposed celebration appears to be unnecessary. And it certainly seems at first glance to be singular that a foreign event occurring nearly two hundred years ago, and with which American citizens can not actively sympathise, should become on our soil the subject for extensive commemoration. Moreover, ought not the feuds and animosities of old countries, from whence our adopted citizens come, be entirely merged in our citizenship? There is another danger, is there not, that collisions induced by their maintenance here would be taken advantage of by the dangerous classes, which always grow formidable by such opportunities? It has been said from the bench that no individuals ought ever to be permitted to publicly assemble with banners whose inscriptions would be calculated to inflame the passions of other men; and, in view of what took place last year, may it not be thought by even your well-wishers that a repeated participation by your organization would seem like a concerted effort to irritate the public peace? I could suggest many occasions for celebrating even American events which would result inevitably in producing public ill feeling and inviting public disorder. Suppose, for instance, that a considerable number of New York residents of Southern birth should propose to celebrate the battle of Bull Run, that occurred in this month, and should, by means of banners and music, succeed in arousing the bad temper of the hundreds of thousands who not only could never sympathize with the event, but, under much personal, sectional, or national feeling, deplore it; or suppose that, in view of recent events that have occurred in Europe, a body of French adopted citizens, furnished with banners and music distasteful in sight and sound to citizens of German birth, should march through sections of our city that are inhabited by the latter? I content myself at present with simply submitting to you these very general considerations, and with asking you whether it would not be more politic for you and your friends to forego any popular or public demonstration of the event to which you and they attach so much importance.

Very truly yours,

A. Oakey Hall,
Mayor of the City of New York.

General Order, No. 57.

On discovering that the "glittering generalities" of his rhetoric had no effect upon the Orangemen, the Mayor directed Superintendent of Police Kelso to issue the following order prohibiting the parade:

Office of the Superintendent of Police of the City of New York,
300 Mulberry St., New York, July 10, 1871.

Captain——, ——Precinct:

General Order, No. 57.—The Superintendent has been applied to by the Grand Master of the Orange Lodges in the United States to give police support to a celebration by a procession (throu' principal streets and avenues of the city of New York on the 12th inst.,), in honor of the battle of the Boyne, and the surrender which was in consequence.

These several commemorative victories on the soil of Ireland by one English king over another one, nearly two centuries ago, engendered national differences which have descended from generation to generation with increasing acrimony, and large bodies of citizens participating in these feelings form parts of our community.

The Superintendent has been legally advised he should not aid any street celebrations that involve feuds and animosities belonging solely to the history of other countries than our own, and which experience has proved to endanger the public peace abroad and at home.

The proposed celebration, as is obvious to every one, belongs to the last-named class. Last year, upon the same calendar day, an unexpected public celebration of the foreign event just named was accompanied in the streets with inexcusable and deplorable affrays, by which four citizens lost their lives, despite the interference of the police. This violence was apparently unpremeditated, and resulted from what may be termed spontaneous excitement. This year, however, the procession has been announced much in advance, and unusual arrangements have been made to swell the numbers of participants by accessions from other parts of this State and from other States.

It is given out that armed preparations for defense have been made by the members of the parading lodges. Indeed, the announced procession appears to have been especially organized beyond the magnitude of any previous one, and is emphasized with announcements that apparently evince a determination to resent, it not to avenge, the events which attended last year's celebration, and some of its leaders have stated to the Superintendent that they considered a collision inevitable. If this needless celebration should provoke a general disturbance it would furnish the opportunity always sought for by the lawless and dangerous classes of the community to participate in it, and to carry consequences so far as to endanger the safety of persons and property.

Recent disturbances have been announced from Great Britain by cable dispatches as incident to similar public demonstrations by the Orange Institution in that country. And upon a closer survey the Superintendent is convinced that if the proposed procession forms or moves with its banners and traditional music amidst many unthinking, rash, and hot-headed spectators who are not in sympathy with the foreign feuds which the procession is intended to glorify, then the whole police (and perhaps much of the military) force of the city might be required to protect the procession, and large sections of the city most needing watching would be left unguarded.

If any procession (or occupation by marching order of the streets) were a matter of right, or could legally demand protection, then it should, at all hazards receive escort and guard, because the authorities never should allow that which is matter of right to the populace to be ever lawlessly overawed. But legal decisions have settled that occupation of streets by processions is a mere matter of usage or toleration, and is always subject to police regulation and supervision. The surrender of thoroughfares to large organized bodies of men necessarily interferes with the individual rights of other citizens, and those thus engaged are, in the language of the law, permissible trespassers. The toleration of processions by citizens and authorities is perhaps due to the fact that street meetings and parades always represent some sentiment or occasion not at all calculated to provoke hot blood. In every subject-matter for police discretionary permission the inconvenience of the few ought to be surrendered to the widest security for the property and person of the greatest number of citizens. And at all times the police should prevent occasions for disorder rather than wait to regulate or suppress it. It is very clear that if any one individual should undertake by himself to produce an occasion of irritation and excitement to others in the community, he would not be, in such an act, entitled to police protection. And surely what may not be done by one individual ought not to be attempted by the organized many, when the aggravation would be so much the greater.

Therefore you are ordered (in conformity to the private directions herewith promulgated, and which relate merely to details of discipline and arrangements for police action not expedient to be publicly announced) to prevent the formation or progression of the public street procession for the 12th inst., alluded to, and of all processions under pretense of target purposes. You will also on that day impartially keep all streets cleared from groups and assemblages of every class of citizens, whether sympathizing with or against the proposed procession, or whether they are lawlessly disposed or otherwise. You will also promptly arrest all persons of any description, who, in the thoroughfares, use threatening or disorderly language, inciting to breach of the peace, in contempt of the State statutes upon that subject.

James J. Kelso, Superintendent.

Governor Hoffman's Proclamation.

The foregoing order appeared in the papers of Tuesday, July 11. The storm of indignation that swept over the country when the disgraceful surrender was made known convinced the Tammany leaders that they had committed a grave blunder. Governor Hoffman hastened to the city, and in the papers of Wednesday, July 12, appeared the following proclamation:

Having been only this day apprised, while at the capital, of the actual condition of things here with reference to proposed processions to-morrow, and having, in the belief that my presence was needed, repaired hither immediately, I do make this proclamation:

The order heretofore issued by the police authorities in reference to said processions having been duly revoked, I hereby give notice that any and all bodies of men desiring to assemble and march in peaceable procession in this city to-morrow, the 12th instant, will be permitted to do so. They will be protected to the fullest extent possible by the military and police authorities. A military and police escort will be furnished to any body of men desiring it, on application to me at my headquarters (which will be at Police Headquarters, in this city), at any time during the day. I warn all persons to abstain from interference with any such assemblage or procession except by authority from me; and I give notice that all the powers at my command, civil and military, will be used to preserve the public peace and put down, at all hazards, every attempt at disturbance; and I call upon all citizens, of every race and religion, to unite with me and the local authorities in this determination to preserve the peace and honor of the city and State.

Dated at New York, this 11th day of July, A. D. 1871.

John T. Hoffman.

By the Governor:

John D. Van Buren, Private Sec'y.

The Tammany Riot.

It is generally conceded that the riot of the 12th of July, might have been prevented if the Tammany leaders had possessed the courage to perform their duty. For several weeks previous to the outbreak the Hibernian societies had met every night at their lodges for the purpose of drilling, and made no secret of their intention to attack the Orangemen if the parade took place. Instead of warning these men that their lawless designs would be prevented by force if necessary, the city authorities cowed before them, and endeavored to coax and wheedle them out of their intentions. Emboldened by this pusillanimous and cringing attitude, the Hibernians became still more defiant, and at length forced the Mayor and the police authorities into the disgraceful surrender to the mob, the story of which is told in the official documents printed on another page of this paper.

The storm of popular indignation which frightened Tammany, and compelled Governor Hoffman, at the eleventh hour, to rescind the infamous "General Order. No. 57," seems to have had no effect upon the rioters. They did not understand, perhaps, the panic which covered their friends in power with confusion; at any rate, it was not shared by them. For two weeks the Mayor had been giving them assurances that the parade would be prevented, and they would not believe he would "go back on them" when the time came. The consequences was that on the morning of the fatal day threatening demonstrations took place in those quarters of the city where the Irish reside in greatest numbers, and sullen groups of ferocious-looking men, most of them armed, gathered at the street corners in the threatened districts. Among these groups, eye-witnesses report, women were most conspicuous by the vehemence with which they denounced Orangemen, police, and soldiers alike; and children of both sexes gathered about them, ignorant alike of their own danger and the desperate resolution of those about them.

In the course of the forenoon it became known that Gideon Lodge of Orangemen, which had intended to join the celebration in New Jersey, had made a change in their programme, and, relying upon the assurance of Gov. Hoffman's proclamation, determined to parade in New York. They had sent notice of their intention to Governor Hoffman, and received from him a promise of protection to the utmost extent of the civil and military authorities. As an earnest of this protection, a strong force of police was immediately sent to their lodge-room at the corner of Twenty-ninth Street and Eighth Avenue. The military did not arrive there till afternoon.

While preparations for the parade were in progress within the hall an excited crowd gathered in the street, increasing rapidly in numbers until it overflowed into the adjoining streets, and extended half a dozen blocks either way on Eighth Avenue. The majority of this crowd appeared to be Ribbonmen, and they were evidently waiting with impatience for an opportunity to attack the Orangemen's procession. The rioters appeared to be entirely without organization or leadership. There was no concert of action among them. Separate gangs of ruffians, six to ten in number, prowled through the streets, eager for pillage, if not for fight. At the several rendezvouses of the Hibernians many bore rifles, regardless of the policemen on their beats, who made no attempt to disarm them. In the upper part of the city the rioters began to move southward at an early hour, compelling all workmen on their routs to desist and join with them. In one or two instances movements were made against the houses of men who had protected the Orangemen during the riots of last year, but as the rioters were without leadership they gradually dispersed before carrying their threats into execution. Attacks were made by the rioters on one or two armories where arms are known to be stored, but the resistance of a few determined policemen cowed the mob. The rioters were vicious and fierce enough for any purpose, but it was plain they were without the organization they had boasted. Still their demonstrations were so threatening before ten o'clock that the police were compelled to seize Hibernia Hall, and General Shaler called for a regiment of troops from Brooklyn, where, as in Jersey City, all had been comparatively quiet.

About half past two o'clock the procession began to move. Before the command to march had been given paving stones and bricks had been hurled among the troops, and one or two pistol shots were fired at them. The police, who acted throughout the day with the greatest coolness, bravery, and prudence, charged upon the crowd whenever the pressure became threatening, and drove back the rioters. They returned, however, as soon as the police fell back, so that the relief was only temporary. The column was formed in the following manner: The Seventh Regiment came first, followed by a strong force of police; then came a body of press reporters; then the Orangemen, with the Eighty-fourth Regiment on their left and the Twenty-second on their right; the Sixth and Ninth followed; and a force of police brought up the rear. The Orangemen numbered only one hundred and sixty. When the column commenced moving down the avenue a few shots were fired at the troops: but nothing serious occurred until the head of the line had reached Twenty-third Street, and the Orangemen were nearly opposite Twenty-fourth Street. Here they were fired upon from a tenement house on the corner of Twenty-fourth Street and Eighth Avenue. The forbearance of the military had perhaps been misinterpreted by the Ribbonmen, who now boldly made their appearance in third story windows and on the roofs. Whole chimneys were torn down and the bricks hurled at the procession. Shots were fired from alleys and cellar-ways. A woman who waved a handkerchief to the procession was immediately shot dead; a little girl at her side shared the same fate. At length Private Page, of the Ninth, was shot through the head by a ruffian on horseback, who rode up to within a few yards of the ranks. He was immediately shot down, and fell riddled with bullets. The smoke was hardly blown away from his pistol before retribution overtook him. Other shots from the rioters followed, and then the Eighty-fourth, Sixth, and Ninth, without waiting for immediate orders, but in pursuance of a general order, opened fire upon the mob. The crowd broke wildly and fled down the side streets, seeking shelter in cellars, behind steps, and in door-ways. The troops were excited, and for a few minutes fired rather wildly, the extreme rear of the Ninth sending a few shots up Eighth Avenue into the platoon of policemen who were stationed at Twenty-ninth Street. They soon recovered their coolness, however, and the procession moved on again, leaving a hundred or more dead and wounded men, women, and children behind them.

The mob made no further attempt to obstruct the march of the Orangemen and their escort: The riot was suppressed by one short fight. The most desperate of the mob slunk away and refused to resume the attack. It was a terrible but effective remedy; and in view of what might have happened had the mob been allowed to gather strength it was also a merciful remedy. The procession traversed only a portion of the intended route, but made a short-cut to its destination in Fourth Avenue near Cooper Institute. The military masked the little band of Orangemen, who concealed their regalia, filed into No. 4 Fourth Avenue, made their way through an alley to another street, where there happened to be no crowd, separated, and disappeared from observation. There was no further disturbance during the day or night. So ended the great riot of 1871.

The casualities of the day was as follows: Killed—two soldiers (of the Ninth), one policeman, forty-four civilians; Wounded—seventeen soldiers, nine policemen, and sixty-seven civilians;

Of our illustrations, those on page 693 show the head-quarters of the Hibernian and Orange societies, and the transfer of captured arms to the Police Head-quarters in Mulberry Street. The larger illustration on page 692 will give the reader a capital idea of the scene of the firing at the corner of Eighth Avenue and Twenty-fourth Street. It was drawn from a sketch by our special artist, who is a member of the Seventh Regiment, and was on the spot at the time. The line of soldiers stretching across the picture in the foreground is the rear company of the Seventh. Behind them is visible the marshal of the Orange procession, conspicuous by being on horse back. The moment chosen by our artist was when the rioters were firing upon the procession from the windows, roofs, and awnings of adjacent houses, provoking the return fire of the troops. On one side the police are seen driving back the mob. One officer is tearing open the coat of a rioter to take away his revolver. On the left a company of soldiers fires over the heads of the procession upon rioters stationed on the roofs opposite.

The members of the Ninth Regiment who had fallen victims to the mob were buried on the following Sunday. The police regulations prevented any attempt at disturbance.

Amongst others, the following named gentlemen will lecture before the County Normal Institute, at Rebersburg:

BELLEFONTE REPUBLICAN.

BELLEFONTE, PA.

FARMER JOHN.

BY J. T. TROWBRIDGE.

Home from his journey Farmer John
Arrived this morning safe and sound.
His black coat off and his old coat on.
"Now I'm myself!" says Farmer John;
And he thinks, "I'll look around."
Up leaps the dog: "Get down, you pup!
Are you so glad you would eat me up?"
The old cow lows at the gate, to greet him;
The horse pick up their ears to meet him;
"Well, well, Old Bay!
Ha, ha, Old Gray!
Do you get feed when I'm away?

"You haven't a rib!" says Farmer John;
"The cattle are looking round and sleek;
The colt is going to be a roan,
And a beauty, too; how he has grown!
We'll wean the calf next week."
Says Farmer John, "When I've been off,
To call you again about the trough,
And watch you, and pet you, while you drink,
Is a greater comfort than you can think!"
And he pats Old Bay,
And he slaps Old Gray;
"Ah! this is the comfort of going away!"

"For, after all," says Farmer John,
"The best of a journey is getting home!
I've seen great sights—but would I give
This spot, and the peaceful life I live,
For all their Paris and Rome?
These hills for the city's stifled air,
And big hotels all bustle and glare,
Land all houses, and roads all stone,
That deafen your ears and batter your bones?
Would you, Old Bay?
Would you, Old Gray?
That's what one gets by going away.

"There money is king," says Farmer John;
"And Fashion is queen; and it's mighty queer
To see how sometimes, while the man
Is raking and scraping all he can,
The wife spends, every year,
Enough, you would think, for a score of wives,
To keep them in luxury all their lives!
The town is a perfect Babylon
To a quiet chap," says Farmer John.
'You see, Old Bay—
You see, Old Gray—
I'm wiser than when I went away.

"I've found out this," says Farmer John,—
"That happiness is not bought and sold,
And clutched in a life of waste and hurry,
In nights of pleasure and days of worry;
And wealth isn't all in gold,
Mortgage and stock and ten per cent,—
But in simple ways and sweet content,
Few wants, pure hopes, and noble ends,
Some land to till, and a few good friends,
Like you, Old Bay,
Like you, Old Gray!
That's what I've learned by going away."

And a happy man is Farmer John,—
O, a rich and happy man is he!
He sees the beans and pumpkins growing,
The corn in tassel, and the buckwheat blowing,
And fruit on the vine and tree,
The large kind oxen look their thanks
As he rubs their foreheads and strokes their flanks;
The doves light round him, and strut and coo;
Says Farmer John, "I'll take you too,—
And you, Old Bay,
And you, Old Gray,
Next time I travel so far away!"

Country Newspapers.

We clip the following article from The Record, a paper published monthly in Boston. The article is full of good sense and is in fact our idea exactly of what a country newspaper should be.

"Second in importance only to our Public Schools, as educators of the young, and shapers of popular opinion, are the Newspapers of the United States. The rapidity with which they multiply is proof at once of the popular need which they supply, and of their great influence upon us as a people. We do not propose to write an essay on newspapers in general, for that would be a task to which an entire volume could hardly do justice; yet some thoughts about country newspapers and their management may be entertaining, if not profitable.

When a Village has achieved a Blacksmith-Shop, its Saw and Grist Mill, its School House and Church, it begins to realize the need of a Local "Organ," and soon rejoices in the possession of a veritable newspaper, destined to preserve its name for a longer or shorter period as the capacity of the publisher and the liberality of the public may determine. Thirty years ago the field open to country newspapers was very different to that which the majority of them now occupy. Then the largest section of the Union was almost wholly dependent on its local sheets for all its newspaper intelligence, and these sheets held the position of teachers and guides in almost all secular matters; they pointed the way in politics, gave advise on business, and supplemented the imperfect education of the schools, with a mass of general information attainable by most of their readers from no other source. Now their duties are less dignified, and of an almost purely local character. The great city papers, daily, semi-weekly and weekly, have penetrated to the farthest regions, flooding the land like a torrent. They have also usurped the office of political instructors and become compendiums of current intelligence for the use of the remotest inhabitants. This change is natural, because the great cities are the fountains of opinion on subjects of national interest, as well as of news.

This revolution has contracted the sphere of country papers within very narrow limits. They cannot, of course, compete with the city papers in the dissemination of full and fresh intelligence; nor will their revenues justify them in employing such editorial talent as will be able to influence public opinion, and thus make them its organs. Only one course is left for them, and that is, to devote their entire energies to the illustration of local topics. This is their only field, but it is a wide and rich one, and those who have intelligently cultivated it, have rejoiced in abundant returns. Our idea of a country paper would contain not a line of general news. Its patrons find in other papers all they care to see about the war in Europe and the proceedings in Congress; when they take up their local sheet and see column after column of matter which they read a week ago in some city daily, they are naturally and reasonably disgusted, and it is not to be wondered at that many of them write to the publisher "stop my paper," at the end of the year. Our ideal paper should be crammed full of local news, with perhaps one page given up to miscellaneous selections and light reading. Every nook and corner of the region in which the paper circulates, should be represented every week in its columns. If Farmer Smith, of Middle Intesvale, has a promising field of rye, let the fact be stated; it will please him, and stimulate his neighbors to rivalry, in the hope of getting their names in the paper. If the village carriage-maker turns out a handsome buggy, let him have public credit for it in the paper; it will help him to sell his products, put money in his pocket, part of which will come to the newspaper publisher, and, indirectly but surely, augment the wealth and prosperity of the village. If Jack Plane, the carpenter, builds a fine house, let it be published; some one, seeing the item, will employ him to build another house, and Jack will remember the printer, who helped him to the job.

In fact, there is no end to the number of little "local items," that should be regularly gathered and served up in graceful and attractive style in the columns of a country newspaper. Momentous event are so rare in the country that people make great account of small ones; and a paper which supplies a full and agreeable record of these is sure of liberal support. This record cannot be too full; the "unconsidered trifles" that make up the sum of rural life, look large in type, and people like to read about them. It is unnecessary to add that good judgment must preside over the work of gathering items, and that care should be taken to avoid scandal and gross personalities: these are points which every editor must adjust for himself. But they need not hinder him in the effort to make his paper not only welcome, but absolutely necessary to all who have an interest in affairs within its sphere. Demosthenes said that the secret of oratorical power was "Action! Action! Action!." It is not less true that the secret of success in a country newspaper, is "Locals! Locals! Locals!."

A Mother's Death.

Few persons who have lost their "first and dearest friend" can read the following with unmoistened eyes:

Death comes an unsought guest to every board and at his special bidding some beloved one goes forth to his mysterious home.

Time and philosophy may teach resignation unto hearts made desolate by his coming; but they can never fill the vacancy therein, when she, that was our mother, no longer casts a halo about our darkened hearth.

A mother's place—so loved or worshipped—once empty must be forever so. A breast once panged by a mother's death, no medicine can ever reach with healing.

No mind, however sacred; no heart, however hardened, can forget the gentle being whose suffering begot his life.

A mother is truly our guardian spirit upon earth. Her goodness shields and protects; she walks with our infancy, our youth and mature age, ever sheltering our many sins with her blessed prayers.

And when our mother with all her burden of love, her angelic influences, her saintly care, ceases her beauteous life, how much we lose of home, of happiness, of Heaven no one can reckon; for our mother was none but ours, and we only can know how holy she was—how sacred her memory, even, must be.

But may we now borrow consolation from the thought that our loss is Heaven's gain, that surely one angel watches over us, erasing with grateful tears the records of our sin, and making easy our path to her, with blessed and blessing prayers.

The Constitution as It Was is no less obnoxious to Tammany than the Constitution as it is. The first article of amendment to the Constitution reads: "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble and to petition for a redress of grievance." And this article Oakey Hall undertook to repeal.—Press.

The proceedings of the New York Tammany government in backing down to a miserable mob have been condemned all over the country. Papers come in teeming with indignation at such a surrender of right, and the Tammany leaders are as soundly denounced in the West as at the East. This will be remembered when the day of reckoning comes. The chances of the Democracy throughout the Union are ten times more hopeless than before.

The Philosophy of Advertising.—A Lesson for Business Men to Consider.

It may be set down as an established axiom that

A GOOD THING, WELL ADVERTISED, WILL SELL.

If the history of the most successful business men in the United States and in Europe were written up, it would be found that one of the chief elements of their success was due to liberal, systematic and judicious advertising. There is not one business man in a thousand that appreciates this fact to its full extent, nor are they aware of the power of advertising, as the commercial lever which moves the world. Men of old fogy ideas, with narrow and contracted notions, who rightfully belong to the age of three or four generations age, view with dismay and consternation the extravagance, as they are pleased to call it, of men like Dr. Helmbold, for example, who spends a thousand dollars a day the year round for advertising. Those old fogy and conservative gentleman argue in this wise, that if they have a good thing for sale, and a fair price is charged for it, it will gradually win its way into popular favor. But how will it find its way into popular favor? inquires the modern, liberal advertiser. Why, says "Old Fogy," when one person buys the article, and it pleases him both in respect to its quality and price, he will inform his friends and neighbors, and they will go and buy likewise. In other words, "Old Fogy" relies on the purchasers advertising his article for him, for nothing, and biding his time. That system is all very well, if men lived to the great age of the ante-deluvian patriarchs and worthies; men like Methusaleh, who gave up the ghost and "slept with his fathers" at the good old age of 969 years. But the old fogy system of advertising for nothing won't do in this age of the world. Men of this day do not live half the years of the allotted three score and ten; therefore

THEY CAN'T AFFORD TO WAIT.

Having a good thing for sale at a fair price, and one which the public need and will buy, the modern enterprising men let the public know that they have the article, and the sales are increased a thousand fold in consequence.

Of course there are many ways of letting the public know what you have for for sale.

ADVERTISING IS A SCIENCE,

some men have a genius for it. Others are mere clods, and plod along on the beaten track of an idea which has been worn into ruts years gone by. The men of genius, enterprise, and courage, are naturally the pioneers in new systems of advertising, as they are in every other pursuit in life. It is remarkable that new ideas in advertising have kept pace with new ideas in other things. One great reason for this, doubtless, is the facility which the Press affords to the advertiser for reaching the attention of the public. But then, again, if it were not for the money expended in advertising, there would be but comparatively few papers published. The advertising patronage of a newspaper is the pabulum upon which the publisher depends to support the expenses of its publication; and not upon the money received for the papers—that would scarcely pay for the white sheets upon which the matter is printed. There is probably not a newspaper published in the United States that realizes sufficient money in its daily or weekly sales of each successive issue to pay the cost of its publication.

THE MEN WHO ADVERTISE

must contribute the balance, and make up the profits, if any, if they do not, the publication of the paper must cease. It is a failure. Of course this rule applies only to newspapers per se. Literary journals do not come under this head. Their profits are derived from the sale of the papers, though many of them receive a large annual income from advertisements.

It would be curious to trace the growth in advertising in the last twenty years. If the statistics could be furnished and details elaborated in the shape of tables, by which the reader could see at a glance the number of papers, books, and periodicals of all descriptions published, and the amount of money expended for advertising from year to year for the last decade, and a comparative statement showing the amounts for the preceding decades during the present century, they would be exceedingly interesting. No tables got up by the Bureau of Statistics at Washington would be so much read or commented upon. But that is impossible. If it were possible, the tables would show a most astounding amount of money expended in that way. The name of Dr. Helmbold has been mentioned above. We do not wish to be indivious; but as he is the most extensive advertiser, and spends more money than any other one man in the United States, we will give some details of his advertising, for the purpose of affording the reader an approximate conception of what is done.

Dr. Helmbold has been advertising for twenty-five years. He has expended in that time, for advertising, more than four millions of dollars. This includes the money paid for rock and board painting, posters, cuts, "snipes," etc. It does not however, include the Doctor's famous team.

We will take a recent advertising exploit of Dr. Helmbold's as a further illustration of the good effects of advertising.

On the first day of April, 1871, Dr. Helmbold commenced advertising his now celebrated Catawba Grape Juice Pills. On that day simultaneously appeared, in five hundred leading daily papers of the United States and the Dominion of Canada, of from one column to a whole page, an advertisement introducing that article to the public. One week afterward the advertisement appeared—one column in length—in three thousand five hundred daily and weekly papers, magazines, periodicals, etc.

It was a big adventure. One hundred thousand dollars gone in one dash, all to tell the public about of which they had never heard before, and which Dr. Helmbold said he was willing to sell for fifty cents.

WHAT WAS THE RESULT?

The Doctor's experience in the field of advertising had not been in vain, nor had his knowledge of human nature and the confidence with which he could depend upon the people's intelligence and judgement been misplaced. He possessed one great advantage, it was true—Dr. Helmbold was well-known to the people. Said he, in his advertisement: "This pill I have thought of offering to the afflicted for ten years. They are now perfect and I shall stake my time, money, and fame on their effectiveness." He had never deceived them before, and when he said his pills were an excellent blood purifier and purgative the people believed him, and the consequence was that orders immediately came from all parts of the country. Every mail came freighted with bushels of them. Doctor Helmbold was prepared,

HE KNEW THEY WOULD COME.

Every order was filled, as quickly as it was received. Each succeeding week brought an increase of orders. The first month the Grape Juice Pills were put into the market, orders for 3,000 gross dozens had been filled and sent away and for this month of May, that is to the 20th, the day this article was written, there have been sold 4,800 gross dozens, showing an increase of sale, allowing for the difference of time, of 100 per cent.

As it may not be uninteresting to the public, we will state how Dr. Helmbold manages his advertising department. He has two men, brothers, P. H. Kearney and J. G. Kearney, each having separate and exclusive offices in the Palace Drug and Chemical Warehouse, 505 Broadway. These gentlemen, with two assistants, attend to nothing else but advertising. They, with the Doctor's advice and concurrence, make contracts directly with the publishers of all the papers they advertise in the United States. The Messrs Kearney go through each successive number of every paper and periodical in which Dr. Helmbold's advertisements appear, and see that they are correct, checking them off and making an entry for each advertisement, in a book for that purpose. The Doctor's newspaper postage alone, per quarter, is $350 paid in advance.

He expends at the present time $1,000 per day for advertising, exclusive of posters, circulars, bills, cuts, etc.

One great feature of Dr. Helmbold's advertising is his originality. He is always inventing new styles. He is the first man that commenced the fancy and novel style of display repetition. He is the first man that conceived the initial style, the chequered column, and other attractive modes of catching the eyes of the reader. In all cases his style of advertising was immediately copied by others. Electroplate advertising, still adhered to by many advertisers to save expense, Dr. Helmbold dropped seven years ago. It was very good in its time, and a cheap mode of advertising, but it won't do now. The doctor likes to change his "ads." from time to time, so as to give his readers something fresh and new to ponder over, and that can't be done with the electroplate.

Enough has been said to prove to any "old fogy" the value of advertising. If there are any persons who do not believe it, let them test the question for themselves.—N. Y. Globe.

STAND FIRM.—With all the lessons that humanity has to learn in life's school, the hardest is to wait. Not to wait with folded hands that claim life's prizes without previous effort, but, having struggled and crowned the slow years with trial, seeing no such result as effort seemed to warrant—nay, perhaps disaster instead. To stand firm at such a crisis of existence, this is greatness, whether achieved by men or women.

A MISTAKEN NOTION.—Most young men consider it a great misfortune to be born poor, or not to have capital enough to establish themselves, at their outset in life, in a good comfortable business. This is a mistaken notion. So far from poverty being a misfortune to them, if we may judge from what we every day behold, it is really a blessing; the chance is more than ten to one against him who starts with a fortune.

THINKING AND ACTING.—Men are capable of greater things than they perform. They are sent into the world with bills of credit, and seldom draw to their full extent.

A Sensible Father.

A wealthy gentleman of Boston several years ago gave the editor of the Worcester Palladium a short narration of his own experience. He had an income of $10,000 a year (a large sum then, but not considered so now), a house in town, and a country seat a few miles out. He had several children—a coach, fine horses and driver, and took pleasure in riding every day with his children.

One day, when riding, the thought struck him that each one of his children would expect to have a fine house, and coach, and horses, and a driver as their father had before them, and to live as he lived; and if they did not they would be unhappy. He did not think that all of them could have things as he had them, or live as he was living; and he rode home, sent his coach and horses to market and sold them, bought a cheap carayall and became his own driver.

With emphasis, he declared that no amount of wealth could induce him to return to his former mode of living; for if any of his children should happen to be poor, as in all probability some of them would be, they should not suffer in their feelings by the reflection that their father rode in his coach, while they had to rough it on foot. The example he gave them afforded him a satisfaction greater than his wealth had to bestow.

LANGUAGE THAT'S PLAIN.

A DESERTED FEMALE SPEAKS HER MIND.

The following is from the Monongahela Republican. It is a novel contribution to literature, and should be preserved:

$100 REWARD—For the apprehension of Zenus Tuttle, a tall man, about fifty years, has considerable money and a high forehead, long face and lantern-jawed man a bad man with a fist like a giant, and has often beat me, and I want him to end his days in a penitentiary where he belongs, and he wears a gray coat, with a very large mouth, and one blue eye, and one blind blue eye, and a hideous looking man, and now living with the seventh woman, and me having one child to him, and he has gone off, and I want him brought slap up in the law with blue pants. He ought to be arrested, and has a hundred dollars of my money, and a bald headed rascal, full of flattery and deceit, and she is a bad woman, and her little girl calls him "papa" and is called Eliza Jane Tillis, and a boy blind of one eye, and he is not a man what has got any too much sense, nor her. And he stole one hundred dollars from me and some of my gold and silver, and ought to be caught, and I will never live with him again, no never, he is a disgrace, and I would like to have him caught up and compelled to maintain me and his child, as I am his lawful wedded wife, and have the certificate of marriage in my possession.

NANCY TUTTLE.

FINLEYVILLE, PA., April, 1871.

OTHER SINS.—Some folks are prodigiously penitent over other people's sins, and seem to think they have a special call to confess them before the whole world. They will gouge their brother's eyes out rather than leave a single mote in them. At the same time they are singularly blind respecting their own failings.

That every day has its pains and sorrows is universally experienced, and almost universally confessed; but let us not attend only to mournful truths. If we look impartially about us, we shall find that every day has likewise its pleasures and joys.

WHILE ten men watch for chances, one may make chances; while ten men wait for something to turn up, one succeeds, and is called a man of luck, the favorite of fortune. There is no luck like pluck, and fortune most favors those who are indifferent to fortune.

He who thinks no man above him but for his virtue, none below him but for his vice, can never be obsequious or assuming in a wrong place, but will frequently emulate men in stations below him, and pity these nominally over his head.

A man who will stab another's reputation by insinuation and innuendo is far worse than a thief. Goods you may replace, but character once lost is all but irredeemable, and, as a great writer has said, a word is enough to ruin a man.

OF a truth, a home without a girl is only half blest; it is an orchard without blossoms, and a Spring without song. A house full of sons is like Lebanon with its cedars; but daughters by the fire-side are like roses in Sharon.

WOE will ever follow those who allow power, or fashion, or the opinions of others, or anything else human, to interfere with personal responsibility, or to render them unfaithful to their convictions.

No one should attempt to do more than one thing at a time. When you have finished slandering your neighbors go and say your prayers, but don't attempt to do both at once.

A fool in a high station is like a man on the top of high mountain—everything appears small to him, and he appears small to everybody.

IF you begin by apologizing for what cannot be defended, you will end by defending what cannot be apologized for.

MEN, like water, left to themselves, gravitate to their places.

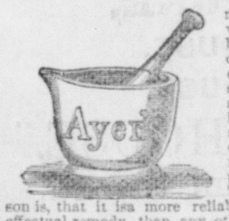
Miscellaneous.

Ayer's Cathartic Pills
For all the the Purpose of a Laxative medicine.



Perhaps no one medicineis sounlversally required by everybody a cathartic, nor was ever any before so universally adopted into use in every county and among all classes, as this mild but efficient purgative Pill.—The obvious reason is, that it isa more reliable and far more effectual remedy than any other. Those who have tried it, know that it cured them: those who have not, knows that it cures their neighbors and friends, and all know that what it does once it does always—that it never falls through any fault or neglect of its composition. We have thousands upon thousands of certificates of their remarkable cures of the following complaints, but such cures are known in every neighborhood and we need not publish them. Adapted to all ages and conditions in all climates; containig neither calomel or any deleterous drug, they may be taken with safety by anybody. Their sugar coating preserves them ever fresh, and makes them pleasant to take, while being purely vegetable no harm can arise from their use in any quantity.

They operate by their powerful influence on the infernal vicera to purify the blood and stimulate it into healthy action—remove the obstructions from the stomach' bowels, liver, and other organs of the body, restoring their irregular action to health, and by correcting, wherever they exist, such derangements as are the first origin of disease.

For Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Listlessness, Langnor and loss of Appetite, they should be taken moderately to stimulate the stomach and restore its healthy tone and action.

For Liver Complaint and its various symptoms, BILLIOUS HEADACHE, SICK HEADACHE, JAUNDICE or GREEN SICKNESS, BILLIOUS COLIC and BILLIOUS FEVERS, they should be judiciously taken for each case, to correct the diseased action or remove the obstructions which cause it.

For Dysentery or Diarrhœa, but one mild dose is generally required.

For Rheumatism, Gout, Gravel, Palpitation of the Heart, Pain in the Side, Back or Loins, they should be continuously taken, as required, to change the diseased action of the system. With such change those complaints disappear.

For DROPSY and DROPSICAL SWELLINGS they should be taken in large and frequent doses to produce the effect of a drastic purge.

For Suppression a large dose should be taken as it produces the desired effect by sympathy.

As a DINNER PILL, take one or two PILLS to promote digestion and relieve the stomach.

An occasional dose stimulates the stomach and bowels into healthy action, restores the appetite, and invigorates the system. Hence it is often advantageous where no serious derangement exists. One who feels tolerably well, often finds that a dose of these PILLS makes him feel decidedly better, from their cleansing and renovating effect on the digestive apparatus.

SOMETHING NEW UNDER THE SUN.
A New Era In Medicine.

☞ Let the Suffering and Diseased read the following.

☞ Let all who have been given up by Doctors, and spoken of as incurable, read the following.

☞ Let all who can believe facts, and can have faith in evidence, read the following.

Know all men by these presents. That, on this, the Twentieth day of June, in the year of our Lord, One Thousand Eight Hundred and Sixty-six, personally came Joseph Haydrick to me known as such, and being duly sworn deposed as follows: "That he is the sole general agent for the United States and dependencies thereof for preparations or medicines known as Dr. Maggiel's Pills and Salve, and that the following certificates are verbatim copies to the best of his knowledge and belief.

JAMES SMEITRE, Notary Public,
(L. S.) 14 Wall St. New York.

June 1st, 1866.

DR. MAGGIEL:—I take my pen to write you of my great relief and that the awful pain in my side has left me at last—thanks to your medicine. Oh, Doctor, how thankful I am that I can get some sleep. I can never write it enough. I thank you again and again, and am sure that you are really the friend of all sufferers. I could not help writing to you, and hope you will not take it amiss. JAMES MYERS,
116 Avenue, D.

This is to certify that I was discharged from the army with Chronic Diarrhœa, and have been cured by Dr. Maggiel's Pills.

WILSON HARVEY,
NEW YORK, April 7, 1866. 27 Pitt Street.

The following is an interesting case of a man employed in an Iron Foundry, who, in pouring melted iron into a flask that was damp and wet, caused an explosion. The melted iron was thrown around and on him in a perfect shower, and he was burnt dreadfully. The following certificate was given to me, by him, about eight weeks after the accident:

NEW YORK, Jan. 11, 1866.
My name is Jacob Hardy; I am an Iron Founder. I was badly burnt by hot iron in November last; my burns healed, but I had a running sore on my leg that would not heal: I tried Maggiel's Salve and it cured me in a few weeks. This is all true and anybody can see me at Jackson's Iron Works, 2d Avenue.

EXTRACTS FROM VARIOUS LETTERS.

"I had no appetite; Maggiel's Pills gave me a hearty one."
"Your Pills are marvellous."
"I send for another box, and keep them in the house."
"Dr. Maggiel has cured my headache that was chronic."
"I gave half of one of your Pills to my babe for cholera morbus. The dear little thing got well in a day."
"My nausea of a morning is now cured.'
"Your box of Maggiel's Salve cured me of noises in the head. I rubbed some of your Salve behind my ears, and the noise has left."
"Send me two boxes, I want one for a poor family."
"I enclose a dollar, your price is 25 cents, but the medicine to me is worth a dollar."
"Send me five boxes of your Pills."
"Let me have three boxes of your Pills by return mail."

I Have over 200 such Testimonials as these, but want of space compels me to conclude.

FOR CUTANEOUS DISORDERS,
And all erruptions of the skin, the SALVE is most invaluable. It does not heal externally alone, but penetrates with the most searching effects to the very root of the evil.

ψυχη Psychomancy. This word is derived from the Greek, signifying the power of the soul, spirit or mind, and is the basis of all human knowledge. Psychomancy is the title of a new work of 400 pages, by Herbert Hamilton B. A., giving full instruction in the science of Soul Charming and Psychologic Fascination; how to exert this wonderful power over men or animals instantaneously, at will. It teaches Mesmerism, how to become Trance or Writing Mediums, Divination, Spiritualism, Alchemy, Philosophy of omens and Dreams, Brigham Young's Harem, Guide to Marriage, &c. This is the only book in the English language professing to teach this occult power, and is of immense advantage to the Merchant in selling goods, the Lawyer in gaining the confidence of Jurors, the Physicians in healing the sick; to Lovers, in securing the affections of the opposite sex, and all seeking riches or happiness. Price by mail, in cloth, $1.25; paper covers, $1. Agents wanted for this book, Private Medical Works, Perfumery, Jewelry, &c., who will receive samples free. Address, T. W. Dr. Helmbold.

HENRY T. HELMBOLD'S
COMPOUND FLUID Extract Catawba GRAPE PILLS.
Component Parts—Fluid Extract Rhubard and Fluid Extract Catawba Grape Juice.

For Liver Complaints, Jaundice, Bilious Affections, Sick Or Nervovs Headache, Costiveness Etc. Purely Vegetable, Containing No Mercury, Minerals Or Deleterious Drugs.

H

These Pills are the most delightfully pleasant purgative, superseding castor oil, salts, magnesia etc. There is nothing more acceptable to the stomach. They give tone, and cause neither nausea nor griping pains. They are composed of the finest ingredients. After a few days' use of them, such an invigoration of the entire system takes place as to appear miraculous to the weak and enervated, whether arising from imprudence or disease. H. T. Helmbold's Compound Fluid Extract Catawba Grape Pills are not sugar-coated, from the fact that sugar-coated Pills do not dissolve, but pass through the stomach without dissolving, consequently do not produce the desired effect. THE CATAWBA GRAPE PILLS, being pleasant in taste and odor, do not necessitate their being sugar-coated. PRICE FIFTY CENTS PER BOX.

E

HENRY T. HELMBOLD'S
HIGHLY CONCENTRATED COMPOUND

For purifying the blood, removing all chronic constitutional diseases arising from an impure state of the blood. And the only Reliable and effectual known remedy for the cure of Pains and Swelling of the Bones, Ulcerations of the Throat and Legs, Blotches, Pimples on the Face, Erysipelas and all Scaly Eruptions of the Skin, and Beautifying the Complexion. Price, $1 50 Per Bottle.

M

HENRY T. HELMBOLD'S
CONCENTRATED
FLUID EXTRACT BUCHU,
THE GREAT DIURETIC.

has cured every case of DIABETES in which it has been given, Irritation of the Neck of the Bladder and Inflammation of the Kidneys, Ulceration of the Kidneys and Bladder, Retention of Urine, Diseases of the Prostate Gland, Stone in the Bladder, Calculus, Gravel, Brick-dust Deposit, and Mucous or Milky Discharges, and for Enfeebled and Delicate Constitutions of both sexes, attended with the following symptoms: Indisposition to Exertion, Loss of Power, Loss of Memory, Difficulty of Breathing, Weak Nerves, Trembling, Horror of Disease, Wakefulness, Dimness of Vision. Pain in the Back, Hot Hands, Flushing of the Body, Dryness of the Skin, Eruption on the Face, Pallid Countenance, Universal Lassitude of the Muscular System, Etc.

Used by persons from the ages of eighteen to twenty-five, and from thirty-five to fifty-five or in the decline or change of life; after confinement or labor pain; bed-wetting in children.

B

Helmbold's extract buchu is Diuretic and Blood-Purifying, and Cures all Diseases arising from habits of Dissipation, and Excesses and Imprudences in life Impurities of the Blood, Etc., Superseding Copaiba in Affections for which it is used, and Syphilitic Affections—In these Diseases used in Connection with Helmbold's rose wash.

LADIES.

In many affections peculiar to ladies, the extract buchu is Unequalled by any other Remedy as in Chlorosis or Retention, Irregularity, Painfulness or Suppression of Customary Evacuations, Ulcerated or schirrus state of the Uterus, Leucorrhœa or Whites, Sterility, and for all Complaints incident to the Sex, whether arising from Indiscretion or Habits of Dissipation. It is prescribed extensively by the most Eminent Physicians and Midwives for Enfeebled and Delicate Constitutions, of Both Sexes and all Ages (attended with any of the above Diseases or Symptoms.)

O

H. T. HELMBOLD'S
EXTRACT BUCHU CURES DISEASES ARISING FROM IMPRUDENCES, HABITS, OF DISSIPATION, ETC.,

in all their stages, at little expense, little or no change in diet, no inconvenience, and no exposure. It causes a frequent desire, and gives strength to Urinate, thereby removing Obstructions, Preventing and Curing Strictures of the Urethra, Allaying Pain and Inflamation, so frequent in this class of diseases, and expelling all Poisonous matter.

Thousands who have been the victims of incompetent persons, and who have paid heavy fees to be cured in a short time, have found they have been deceived, and that the "Poison" has, by the use of "powerful astringents," been dried up in the system, to break out in a more aggravated form, and perhaps after Marriage.

Use HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU for all Affections and Diseases of the Urinary Organs, whether existing in Male or Female, from whatever cause originating, and no matter of how long standing. PRICE ONE DOLLAR AND FIFTY CENTS PER BOTTLE.

L

HENRY T. HELMBOLB'S IMPROVED ROSE WASH

cannot be surpassed as a Face Wash, and will be found the only specific remedy in every species of Cutaneous Affection. It speedily eradicates Pimples Spots, Scorbutic Dryness, Indurations of the Cutaneous Membrane, etc., dispels redness and incipient inflammation, hives, rash, moth patches, dryness of scalp or skin, frost bites, and all purposes for which salves or ointments are used; restores the skin to a state of purity and softness, and insures continued healthy action to the tissue of its vessels, on which depends the agreeable clearness and vivacity of complexion so much sought and admired. But however valuable as a remedy for existing defects of the skin, H. T. Helmbold's Rose Wash has long sustained its principle claim to undounded patronage, by possessing qualities which render it a Toilet Appendage of the most Superlative and Congenial character, combining in an elegant formula those prominent requisites, safety and efficacy—the invarisble accompaniments of its use—as a Preservative and Refresher of the Complexion. It is an excellent Lotion for diseases of a Syphilitic Nature, and as an injection for diseases of the Urinary Organs, arising from habits of dissipation, used in connection with the EXTRACTS BUCHU, SARSAPARILLA, AND CATAWBA GRAPE PILLS, in such diseases as recommended, cannot be surpassed. PRICE, ONE DOLLAR PER BOTTLE.

Full and explicit directions accompany the medicines.

Evidences of the most responsible and reliable character furnished on application, with hundreds of thousands of living witnesses, and upward of 50,000 unsolicited certificates and recommendatory letters, many of which are from the highest sources, including eminent Physicians, Clergymen, Statesmen, etc. The proprietor has never resorted to their publication in the newspapers; he does not do this from the fact that his articles rank as Standard Preparations, and do not need to be propped up by certificates.

R. B. BARGER,.....PROPRIETOR

W. W. BROWN,.....EDITOR

Terms: $2.00 Per Annum in Advance.

BELLEFONTE, PA.

Wednesday Morning, July 26, 1871.

REPUBLICAN STATE TICKET.

FOR AUDITOR GENERAL,

DAVID STANTON,

OF BEAVER COUNTY.

FOR SURVEYOR GENERAL,

ROBERT B. BEATH,

OF SCHUYLKILL COUNTY.

GEN. CAMERON AND THE VICE PRESIDENCY.

Gen. Cameron authorizes the Harrisburg Telegraph to announce that he is not, and will not be a candidate for Vice President. While he would not accept of a nomination himself, and has no candidate for the second office in the gift of the people, he is very anxious for the re-nomination of Gen. Grant, and promises to labor hard, both to secure his nomination and election.

His endorsement of Gen. Grant's Administration, and the reasons he gives for his renomination, will meet with a hearty response from the people.

Abraham Lincoln was renominated by the people contrary to the wishes of a large number of politicians, and, if we mistake not, they are going to renominate Grant, notwithstanding there are some active politicians opposed to him. The country will gladly learn that Senator Cameron leads off in favor of the People's candidate. Republicans did not need his assurance that he would labor for the success of the party and its candidates, for no man in the party has a better record as a worker and a party man than himself. Since the organization of the party, Senator Cameron has ever been faithful and active in promoting its interests and contributing largely to its success.—Beaver Radical.

SLAVERY TO BE RESTORED.

Jeff Davis is reported to have said recently, in a private conversation with a friend:

"Never mind Mr.——; next year, or in a year or two, our legislature will be all right, and governors too, and inside of five years I expect to be re-instated in the presidential chair of the Confederate States, and then we shall have all these niggers back in slavery."

MORE ABOUT JEFF DAVIS.

Democratic journals are stoutly averring that Jeff Davis, in his mad talk throughout the South, speaks only for himself, and represents no extensive Southern sentiment. The ovations given him, and the applause which greeted his remarks tell a different story—besides, here is what a prominent Southerner, writing to the Chattannooga "Times," says about it:

"We of the South can not allow ourselves to be lectured by any one who is unable to conceive, even in the slightest degree, the feeling of deep grief which fills the souls of those who have fought for the right, and have been overpowered by what they conscientiously and religiously believe to be wrong. Jefferson Davis still has the love and admiration, as well as the confidence of every true southerner, and it will propably be well for the Times in the future to bear this in mind."

TOOMBS FOR WAR.

A Herald correspondent, who has been interviewing Robert Toombs, reports:

Report.—Do you think the people of the South are prepared to accept the platform?

Toombs.—Why, of course they won't accept it. They cannot do so without being false to every principle of justice and freedom.

Reporter.—What are they going to do about it?

Toombs.—I don't know, but they can-no- support it. I don't know but that it is the- out time for us to fight again. Our only h-ope is in ourselves. Every party in the North abandons us. I never expected much from the Northern Democrats since they deserted us at the begining of the war; so I am not greatly disappointed. I know the men who are their leaders, and they are just as unscrupulous as Radicals. I am not a peace man. There are many worse occupations than fighting; besides, everything, nearly, in the way of political freedom, has been won in battle. Whenever an opportunity occurs to fight again, we will. We will wait until you people at the North are divided among yourselves, or at war with some foreign power. The time will come, sooner or later, and these men there [Toombs pointed to some farmers who were standing near by] would fight again to day, if need be. You cannot conquer except by killing us off, and that is an impossibility.

Reporter.—But if you want to start fighting again, don't you think it unwise to talk about it?

Toombs.—No sir; I think it is time to let the Northern people know that we are ready to fight if they won't let us alone. Jeff Davis's speeches were reproduced here as published by Democratic journals in places where they were delivered. His plea of being misrepresented by Northern correspondents is a specious one.

FOSTERING MONOPOLY.

Our Democratic friends, with a sublime contempt for history, claim superiority over the Republican party on account of their opposition to corporate and other monopolies. "The tree is known by its fruits," and nowhere is the Democratic tree, more fully developed, or more free to produce the fruits natural to its innate sap and juices than in Kentucky. Hence it may be instructive to examine a specimen of those fruits as exhibited in the Louisville Commercial of June 24th:

DIVIDING THE SPOILS.

At the legislative session of 1867-8, there was passed through both houses of the Kentuckey Legislature a bill chartering the Green and Barren River Navigation Company, a private corporation, and to this corporation was given by said act, for the term of thirty years all the State property on Green and Barren rivers and their tributaries, including locks, dams, ground, houses, water power, rents, profits, tools, machinery, implements and appurtenances, and all the fanchises thereunto belonging, "free of cost or charge." This bill was engineered through the Legislature largely by the efforts of Senator Wm. H. Payne, then holding a seat on the floor of the State Senate as a member thereof, who was interested pecuniarily in the proposed navigation company, and is now president of that corporation.

Under this act, the said navigation company has raised the tolls on said river so that no boats, except those run by the corporation, can afford to navigate these waters or participate in the commerce of the people along their borders. The people must ship their grain, tobacco and stock by this monopoly, or not ship it at all. A gentleman in Western Kentucky, said to us, that he was lately informed by a prominent steamboat captain, that 'if he was presented with a boat and its furnishings, he could not afford to pay the tolls and run on Green river.' The recent construction of the Owensboro and Russellville railroad to the river, saves about $2 per hogshead in tobacco transportation alone, if we have been rightly informed, notwithstanding the cheapness usually of water conveyance. Thus, the navigable waters of the State have been given into the hands of a monopoly, by the Democratic party, free commerce shut off, a tax levied on trade, and the people subjected to an embargo. And this, too with the property of the State owned in common by all the people.

What right has the Democratic party to thus obstruct navigation? What right has it to erect a monopoly to oppress the people? What right has it to give control over the navigable waters of Kentucky to a private batch of speculators, and to fortify them in control by a free gift of State property? What right has the Democratic Legislature to divide out State property as common spoils?

"WAS VALLANDIGHAM A TRAITOR?"

The Chicago Republican of Friday morning contains the following letter:

CHICAGO, June 22, 1871.

To the Editor of the Republican:

In your issue of this morning, in an article entitled "Was Vallandigham a Traitor?" you repeat what you have previously asserted, that he was not. The South was in rebellion against the Government for independence. If Vallandigham sympathized with them in the desire, was he not as much of a traitor as Jeff Davis?

Below is a letter, over his own signature, in which he declared that he hoped and prayed for the success of the South, in its struggle for freedom, and advised them to make the war more bloody still; and even recommends the invasion of the North. If this does not constitute a traitor, please define the meaning of the word. The following is the letter referred to. It was written to Colonel Inshall, of the 8th Alabama Regiment, while Vallandigham was in the South:

You surmise correctly when you say that you believe me to be the friend of the South in her struggle for freedom. My feelings have been publicly expressed in my own country in that quotation from Lord Chatham: "My Lords, you cannot conquer America." There is not a drop of Puritan blood in my veins. I hate, despise, and defy the tyrannical Government which has sent me among you for my opinions' sake, and shall never give it my support in its crusade upon your institutions. But you are mistaken when you say there are but few such in the United States, North. Thousands are there who would speak out but for the military despotism that strangles them.

Although the contest has been, and will continue to be, a bloody one, you have but to persevere and the victory will surely be yours. You must strike home! The defensive policy lengthens the contest. The shortest road to peace is the bloodiest one. You can have your own terms by gaining the battle on your enemy's soil.

Accept my regards for your personal welfare, and sincere thanks for your kind wishes in my behalf, and hoping and praying for the ultimate cause in which you are fighting, believe me as ever, your friend,

C. L. VALLANDIGHAM.

Colonel D. D. Inshall, 8th Alabama Volunteers.

NEW DEPARTURE.—NO 2.

COL. BROWN.—Dear Sir:—In my last to you, I endeavored to give you some idea of what we Democrats over here, thought of the New Departure, and to show, that we as Democrats are not prepared to gulp down the 9th resolution, the exponent of the new departurists. I, also, think I expressed the true sentiment of Pennsvalley Democrats in regard to the Ring candidates who now seem to be uppermost in the contest for office. We are still a little puzzled over the Meek, Orvis game; as we are not quite certain whether it is Orvis against Meek or Meek against Orvis, or whether it is Orvis for Meek. The thing looks a little funny. As yet Meek remains quiescent, and seems satisfied with a sort of apology for the New Departure resolution, and with an explanation of it, to the effect that it means nothing, hence has no binding effect upon the party. If it is meaningless why not expunge it from the platform, and not let it exist there as an eyesore and a stumbling block to the true Democracy? It surely can't strengthen us, and looks to a plain honest democrat, as though something was rotten in denmark; as though the true and tried principles of our old Jacksonian Democracy were to be sacrificed on the altar of black Republicanism. Orvis don't cheap on this all-important question, and seems disposed to let us grope our way in the dark.

As I stated in my former, we are in earnest in regard to the New Departure, and want our legislative candidate especially, to make a decided and positive record on this question, before he can claim or feel assured of the hearty and united support of Pennsvalley democrats. Col., we feel over here as though we have always been counted the little fish in the fry, when it comes to the distribution of the offices, and patronage of the party, and the division of the loaves and fishes; but when it comes to voting, then we are expected to be counted the big ones.

We are about tired of this; and if the Ring candidates are determined to thrust upon us the New Departure, and thus concede that time honored Democracy, has been a stupendous error, and that Radicalism is right, and adopt their policy, and thus wipe out all distinction between Republicanism and New Departure democracy, then I go in for a New Departure number two. If we are no longer to be distinguished from Republicans in principle, why should we be in name? Then the new departure number two, that I suggest is this: There are a respectable few of Pennsvalley Democrats, as well as some in other parts of the county, who have done much hard work for our party in this county, and whose claims for services thus rendered, have almost uniformly been treated with cool indifference, by the Moguls of the Court House Ring. I therefore, amidst the crash of democratic pcinciples, and party distinctions, and the Meek and Orvis, now unexplainable movement, propose that we respectable few secure to ourselves, a portion of the loaves and fishes at least, by forming a fusion ticket with the Republicans of the county, and unite with them in action as we are in principle according to the 9th resolution adopted at Harrisburg convention. It is not probable that we will secure fair play in any other way. If the Ring are unable to read the hand writing on the wall, let them call in a Daniel and take warning, or suffer the consequences.

Col. this may be considered a bold departure, but there are some of us bold enough to make it. Yours &c.

Drunkenness and its Curses—No. 18.

BY REFORMATION.

Thus lips that do with brandy turn,
Shall never prosper long;
God's righteous vengeance, shall consume
The whiskey—loving tongue.

The young men of our land may set glorious examples of voluntary abstinence from ardent spirits, and, by associations for that purpose, may array a strong and determined opposition against the further encroachments of the destroyer, through the monster, the license law, while men of high official standing and influence, may return their now lost honor in the sight of God and weeping humanity, by opening their eyes and ears to the promptings of a violated conscience, to the crys of the widow and orphan, by casting of the foul stain of corruption, through, and by which they are now satanically bound, and come forth like men, in firmness and independence, in the abolition of long established, but corrupting habits. For upon those who fill high places among men upon earth—who court the honor and esteem of the world—upon you are we indebted for the wretchedness and misery now flooding our land. And upon you is the Almighty God of heaven pointing his carnon of vengence for the drunkenness which is now sending our fathers, mothers, sisters, brothers, and relatives, to hell. Can I prove this, do you say? Oh yes. I have no occasion to leave the tand upon which I am writing, to hunt he evidence. Will you demand the proof? You shall have it. Now you have found it, and pray will you be candid enough to tell the public at large where you did find it? "Conscience." Yes, you had it covered up there. How pitiful you looked before both God and your fellow men, when you undertook to screen yourselves from the guilt of this charge, under the plea that you found this accursed law upon the statute book. You have been already told how that law got there, and if you consider the fact of its being there a sufficient security for the redemption of your souls from he wrath of God my advice would be for each and every one of you, to have a printed copy upon your persons, so secured, so you will have it ready to hand up to the court of heaven, when you appear there. For the tears of the widow and the cries of the orphan have already been placed upon the statute book of heaven against you. But again, ye magistrate to whom the law has confided (as you claim) the discretionary power of giving license for the vending of ardent spirits, and the sword for the punishment of the violations of law—though you alone could not resist the turning tide, yet, when the country and nation is moved with fear, and is putting in requisition, her energies to strengthen your hands, will you not stand up to your duty, and do it fearlessly and firmly, as your conscience plainly dictates you should do?

No class of men in the community possess as much direct power as you possess, and, when sustained by public sentiment, your official influence and authority may and can be made irresistible. Remember, then, your designation by Heaven to office, for this self same thing, and as you would maintain a conscience void of offence, and give up o God a good account—be faithful. Quench no longer the spirit of mercy.

Who among you, will rise up for God against this foul demon—the license law—which of all others, he most abhors, because most dishonorable and destructive to his creatures. Oh, could we but bring before you, as supplicants for your pity, vengeance against drunkenness; all those wretched beings who have suffered and perished by and through this hell-cursed medium, made and held up in respectability by you who wear the cognomen of "Honorable;" could we but point you to those broken-hearted mothers, with their pale, hollow-eyed children—naked and crying for bread—while their fathers are guzzling their substance at the grog shop, and that grog shop clothed with authority, to make drunkards, from your hands. There it hangs behind the counter, in a frame carefully under a glass. By authority of our county court, signed and in language not to be misunderstood, "License." And by authority of same is the bottle put to the mouths of many. Could I picture this in its true colors as it ought and should be, I think you would cry out as did—Saul of Tarsus. "Lord what wilt thou have us to do." Conscience has already done this, and will you longer heed not its warnings, or will you continue in your mad career until you, like the rich man, lift up your eyes in hell, and cry out for a drop of water to cool your parched tongues? "Vengeance is mine," saith the Lord. But here is another picture—will you please call it to mind? Such pictures are now of common occurrence in our land. But here is one that happened but a few years ago near your own doors, I will mention no names. A young man, for ought I know, was your school fellow, and your boyhood may have been passed in his company. We all witnessed the first buddings of his mental powers, and knew that he possessed an active and enterprising mind. He grew into life with every prospect of usefulness; he entered into business, and for a few years, done well; his parents doted upon him in love and pride; he accumulated property, and in a few years, with ordinary prudence and care, would have been what the world calls independent. He married and became the head of a family, the father of children, and all was prosperous and happy around him. Had he continued as he began, he would have been a comfort to his friends and an honor to the community. But the scene changed. He grew fond of the licensed devil—whiskey. He was absent from meetings, from the house of God, and present at grog-shops. By degrees he became a drunkard. He neglects his business, and his affairs go, day by day, to destruction. He is now a confirmed drunkard, his property under the Sheriff's hammer, and sold from the weeping wife and her destitute, and famished children. His old father and mother sunk down into the grave, broken-hearted; his wife, pale and emaciated, and his children, are ragged and ignorant. All his feelings of manhood gone, he has lost all shame, he manages to procure his accustomed supply of the licensed monster—whiskey (if he should steal the wash-tub earnings of his distressed wife,) that is fast consuming him; he staggers through and through the mud and filth at the dead hour of night to his now miserable home; he meets a weeping wife who was once the object of his love, and starving children; he abuses them and tumbles down upon a thing like a bed; curses, swears, and foams like a mad brute, till he is able to go again to the licensed sink of destruction and guzzle down again the accursed flame of death. He repeats the scene from day to day, till his nature yields and faints, and he becomes sober in death. His is only one of the many scenes of a like character that have occurred, Mr. Editor, in your own city. This is the form in which it is seen, and in this horrible manner does it daily occur in our midst. It is sufficient to make devils tremble, and would make angels weep. In the face of all these facts, does the sober and temperate portion of our community feed, sustain, clothe, and supply the fountain from which this stream of death flows. And you, who sign petitions; and you, granters of license, can you supply the cause and detach yourselves from the effect? Can you hurl fire-brands through our land, and witness the conflagration, and claim exemption from guilt? Ye men in authority, can you spread the contagion among our families, and when you hear the dying groan and see the funeral car, tell us you are not to blame? Yet you, through your agent, the vender, are doing all of this. You spread the intoxicating cause; you see the drunken effect; you hear the drunken curse; you witness the drunken revel; you are surrounded with it; you are the great medium of its cause, and yet you tell us you are innocent. Great must be your smothering efforts to calm an outraged conscience. But you know the responsibility is so fearfully great, that you sneak away from the acknowledgement like a dog from the sheep-fold. You see the guilt and the wo, and shudder at the thought of being its cause. And well you may; but you cannot escape, as long as you furnish the means, (through this child of perdition—the license law) of drunkenness to others. You are partakers of the crime and an accessory before the fact, and you should be held so in public opinion. You should be held directly responsible for the consequences of your acts, and the same odium which attaches to the principal should attach to all accessories. You tell us you abhor drunkenness, so perhaps you may. Devils believed, but they trembled, and why? Simply from the fact that they stood opposite to the merits of a crucified redeemer, but knew the power thereof. And upon what better ground do you stand, than they? Can any man, woman, or child in the land, claim kindred with Christ and be aiders and supporters of the license law, through and by which thousands upon thousands are annually cast down to hell? Certainly not. "Wherefore let him that thinketh he standeth take heed lest he fall. 1st Cor. x chapter, 12th v.

The Great Medical Discovery!
Dr. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA
VINEGAR BITTERS,
Hundreds of Thousands
Bear testimony to their Wonderful Curative Effects.
WHAT ARE THEY?

They are a Gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, possessing the advantages of both. They are a powerful agent in relieving Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver, and all the Visceral Organs.

FOR FEMALE COMPLAINTS, whether in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood or at the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters have no equal. ☞ Send for a circular.

THEY ARE NOT A VILE
FANCY DRINK,
Made of Poor Rum, Whiskey, Proof Spirits and Refuse Liquors doctored, spiced and sweetened to please the taste, called "Tonics," "Appetizers," "Restorers," &c., that lead the tippler on to drunkenness and ruin, but are a true Medicine, made from the Native Roots and Herbs of California, free from all Alcoholic Stimulants. They are the GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER and LIFE GIVING PRINCIPLE a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the System, carrying off all poisonous matter and restoring the blood to a healthy condition. No person can take these Bitters according to direction and remain long unwell.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism and Gout, Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys, and Bladder, these Bitters have been most successful. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood, which is generally produced by derangement of the Digestive Organs.

DYSPEPSIA OR INDIGESTION.
Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the regions of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offsprings of Dyspepsia.

They invigorate the Stomach and stimulate the torpid liver and bowels, which render them of unequalled efficacy in cleansing the blood of all impurities, and imparting new life and vigor to the whole system.

FOR SKIN DISEASES, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring-Worms, Scald-Head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin, of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters. One bottle in such cases will convince the most incredulous of their curative effects.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul, and your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure and the health of the system will follow.

PIN, TAPE and other WORMS, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. For full directions, read carefully the circular around each bottle.

FARM AND HOUSEHOLD.

Wednesday Morning, July 26, 1871.

The Potato Bug.

The farmers of the Western States are becoming seriously alarmed in regard to the ravages of the potato bug, and not without good reason, from all accounts.

Col. Friedrick Hacker, a scientific farmer of Belleville, Illinois, who has been investigating the matter, says the bug is a native of the canons of the Rocky Mountains, where it feeds on the wild potato. It left its original haunts in 1864, and is traveling eastward at the rate of about one hundred and fifty miles a year. It has already reached the Allegheny mountains, the line of its march being over Iowa, Northern Illinois, Indiana, Michigan and Ohio; and wherever the potato is found in abundance this destructive insect is likely to make its way in time though it does not thrive in a southern climate. It also feeds upon the tomato egg plant and others belonging to the same family. There are three successive generations in each season. The first of these continues about twelve days, and if promptly and generally destroyed, the crop may be saved. Soon after its first emergence from the ground it begins to deposit its orange colored eggs on the under side of the potato leaf, from twenty to forty in a cluster. If these are not promptly destroyed in all the neighborhood where they appear, the crop is almost certain to be ruined. When it is considered that in 1869 the five States of Illinois, Indiana. Ohio. Michigan and Wisconsin produced $4.176,000 bushels of potatoes, valued at $15,000,000, some idea may be formed of the serious nature of this destructive visitation.

To Banish Fleas and Lice.

Pennyroyal, a common weed in pastures and meadows, is very offensive to fleas, flies, lice and mosquitoes. To use it advantageously, take lard, and rub or grind it with a muller on a smooth, flat stone, slate, or piece of marble, with the dried or green plant-leaves, stems, and blossoms, until well mixed. Let it stand twenty-four hours melt at a low heat, and strain. With this, anoint the ears and neck of an animal, or the perches and nests of poultry which may be infested. A small quantity may be rubbed under the wings of a hen with a brood of young chickens. A few drops of the oil, rubbed on the face, neck and hands, will keep off mosquitoes, however thick they may be. A good night's rest may be secured in the worst infected woods or swamps where these insects or black flies do most abound, by the use of this mixture. Keep it out of the eyes, as its presence there is not agreeable.—Hearth and Home.

Management of Hen Manure.

I would say that in 1868 I took four bushels of dry manure, turned it on the barn floor, took a common flail and threshed it to a powder; then took twenty five bushels of muck that had been dug eighteen months, spread it on the barn floor and thoroughly mixed it with the hen manure. A single handful of this compost was put in the hill, and the corn dropped upon it. I had a splendid field of corn. Planted one row without the compost. That row could be distinguished all through the season, being about two weeks behind the rest of the field, and finally it never did catch up with the rest.

I believe if farmers that keep from twenty to thirty hens would save all the droppings and compost it in the way above, or in some better way, instead of buying fertilizers as many, at the present day do, it would be very much more to their advantage.—(Josiah Puffer, New England Farmer.

Indian Corn is King.—Of all the crops raised in the United States Indian corn, or maize, which is a better name, is the most important and valuable, as it is the largest in extent, commands the greatest cash value and is applied to more useful purposes than any other. It may be regarded too as the most wholesome. Every animal, and every granivorous bird from the partridge up, prefers it to all other grains; and as to man, if not popularly upon an equality with wheat as an article of diet, it is next to it and is rejected by none. The meal can by prepared in almost every form in which wheat flour is used, and in several preferred by almost everybody. In pork-making it is indispensable—and what would our southern patriots do without a little corn whiskey.—Germantown Telegraph.

COMPLETION OF THE PACIFIC RAILROAD.

GREAT RUSH TO STERNBERG'S.

Sung to the tune of Yankee Doodle.

The Great Pacific Railroad's laid,
From ocean unto ocean,
And now complete connections made,
An enterprising notion.

The mighty work at last is done,
So speedy and brisk, oh!
And now in ten days we can run
From here to San Francisco.

No more we take the ancient route,
The stage, a horrid slow thing;
It banged the passengers about
And wore out all their clothing.

Chorus, for the end of each verse:

The Great Pacific Railroad laid,
From ocean unto ocean,
And we buy clothes from A. Sternberg,
A most delightful notion.

Through passengers by the Pacific Railroad will call at the store of A. Sternberg, before starting, and provide themselves with a complete outfit of Spring and Summer clothing, the very best assortment of which will always be found at A. Sternberg's Store.

People who travel by other routes, and also people who, instead of travelling by any route at all, prefer to stay at home, can find the most superior and seasonable garments, for every occasion, of every variety, and at the lowest price.

Do not fail to call and examine our stock before purchasing elsewhere; if you do not, we are sure you will be sorry that you did not. Our goods are put down to the lowest figure. We sell whole suits, according to quality.

HOME NEWS.

REPUBLICAN DELEGATE ELECTION AND COUNTY CONVENTION.

The Republican voters of the several Boroughs and Townships of Centre county are requested to meet at their usual places of holding elections, on SATURDAY, AUGUST 5th, 1871, for the purpose of chosing the usual number of delegates to which each Borough and Township is entitled; said delegates to meet in County Convention at the Court House in the Borough of Bellefonte, on

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 9th, 1871,

at 1 o'clock, P. M., to place in nomination a ticket to be supported at the ensuing October election, and to transact such other business as may bedeemed necessary.

JAS. H RANKIN,
Chairman Co. Committee.

Bellefonte, July 24, 1871.

WANTED.—Two (2) Harness makers, to work on fine harness. None others need apply. JAS. SCHOFIELD.

DON'T FORGET.—The Picnic of the Logan Fire Co. will be held on the 4th of August next. Do not forget it.

THANKS.—Mr. Isaac Miller, requests us, through the REPUBLICAN, to return his thanks to the fire company and to the citizens, who worked so faithfully, the night of the fire, to save his house.

NOTICE.—B. V. Black, Esq., the gentlemanly butcher who has been supplying the people with an excellent quality of meat for the last decade, now invites all customers knowing themselves indebted to him to call and pay up within the next two weeks.

FURNITURE.—Mr. John Brechbill, at his old established furniture store, has just received another large supply of the most fashionable as well as the most substantial furniture. His sets of Walnut furniture cannot be bought cheaper this side of the cities. Call and see him.

FESTIVAL.-A festival will be held in the Presbyterian church in Jacksonville on Saturday the 5th day of August next. All the friends of the church and the public generally are invited to attend. The proceeds will be applied to the purchase of an organ for the use of said church.

BELLEFONTE ACADEMY.—This school under the management of Prof. J. P. Hughes, has gained such a reputation, and has been so well sustained by the citizens of our town and county, as to make it necessary to erect a large addition to the Academy building. The foundation is already built. Mr. Wm. V. Hughes and Morris Coudrick are the contractors.

WELCOME.—E. A. Wasser, Esq., junior editor of the Girard Press, Kansas, paid our sanctum a visit on Monday last. We were pleased to see him looking so well; but sorry to learn that his press and entire office had been consumed by fire—the work of jay-hawkers or rather of a mob of men who claim title to lands, belonging to a railroad company. The Girard Press had taken sides with the legitimate owners; hence the mob and the fire. People will soon learn that this is a country of law and order and not of mob violence, and the sooner they learn it the better. These incendiaries will be punished severely.

DESTRUCTIVE HAIL STORM.—On Sunday, July 16th, a destructive hail storm visited parts of Centre, Huntingdon and Mifflin counties. Its route so far as we have been able to ascertain, extended across Centre a few miles above Pine Grove Mills, thence over Tussey Mountain into Stone Valley and passing thence into Mifflin. Its track was not more than a mile wide, but very destructive especially about Belleville, Mifflin county, where the corn fields were cut and slashed fearfully, the oats beaten down as if rolled and well nigh altogether thrashed out, the gardens ruined, and windows, exposed to the storm, left paneless. It is estimated that in the little village of Belleville, alone, about twelve hundred panes of glass were broken; some houses losing as many as a hundred each. The hailstones were on an average an inch in diameter and half an inch thick, being disc-shaped. The oldest inhabitant there does not recollect such a storm.

NARROW ESCAPE.—Two children of Thos. Bathurst, a little boy and girl on the 18th inst., came very nearly being killed by the cars near Curtins works. The particulars are as follows: The children were walking down the railroad west of Eagle Works, when the passenger train coming round the curve was so close to them as to make it almost impossible to stop. With great presence of mind the Conductor whistled down, breaks and the speed was checked.

The little girl had stepped to one side of the road, her brother upon the opposite side. She fearing that he would attempt to cross over to her, ran to him, caught him in her arms and started back with her precious load to her first position. In this heroic effort to save her little brother, she was knocked down by the cowcatcher. Her head was cut severely and her leg broken. She threw her brother off the track. He was not much injured. Dr. Grove was called. The patients are out of danger.

For the REPUBLICAN.

MESSRS. EDITORS:

Allow me to express through your paper the pleasure given me and others in attending the entertainment given last Friday evening, which was devised by the young folks for the benefit of the Union Sunday School of Boalsburg. Notwithstanding the rain, muddy roads and other adverse circumstances the Academy Hall was well filled with an appreciative and attentive audience. The exercises consisted principally of Tableaux, most of which were well rendered; the costumes, scenery and postures being appropriate and striking. The effect produced was that of a stereoscopic view. It would weary your patience and that of your readers to detail the scenes depicted, but I cannot help mentioning a few. "Caught in a Shower," was well rendered by too little girls and a boy huddling close to a shock of grain and anxiously peering out to see whether the shower is not soon over. The "Statuary, Justice, Peace and Mercy," resembled as much the marble representations of the allegorical figures as it seems possible for flesh and blood to do. "The Indians' Captive," a fair young girl tied to a stake ready to be burned, surrounded by the fierce savages, was produced with striking effect. This was followed by not a Pantomine but a "Cat-o'-Mine," being a young miss holding her kitten in her arms. "Tenting on the Old Camp Ground," a tableau and song—brought back to many, the days of yore. The exercises closed with an exhibition of remarkable Waxworks by a renouned lecturess, whose amusing lecture was well worth the price of admission. The most remarkable thing about the figures exhibited, was that after the entertainment they went with the audience to the Union Refreshment Saloon where they assisted in partaking of the delicious cakes and ice cream prepared by the ladies of the U. S. S. The proceeds of this entertainment are devoted to purchasing books for the Sabbath School and we are glad to know that the amount raised is considerable. Wishing the cause of Sabbath Schools abundant success temporally and spiritually, I remain

Yours, G.

"A MIGHTY HUNTER."—Mr. Crittenden, in his missionary travels up the river, was invited the other day, to dine with a man to whom he very properly applies the above title. Certainly the man has been "a mighty hunter." His name is Seth Nelson, at present living on the Sinnemahoning creek, near Round Island station. He showed Mr. C., his record of game killing since 1827 to 1845, inclusive. The largest number of wild animals he killed in one year was in 1833, namely: two wolves, three panthers, six elk, eleven bears and forty-one deer. Total killed, three wolves, twelve panthers, twenty-two elk, forty bears and four hundred and twenty-nine deer. Since 1845, Nimrod Nelson has killed not less than two hundred deer and twenty bears, making a sum total of seven hundred and twenty six.

IMPORTANT TO PENSION CLAIMANTS.—The Second Comptroller of the Treasury Department has decided that the roll of soldiers mustered into the service of the State to be mustered into the United States service, but who died or were discharged prior to the muster into the United States service, should be received as evidence of service, and the claims, in cases of deceased men, should be settled when satisfactory testimony is furnished that the soldier died of disease or wounds contracted in the line of duty after enlistment. The decision covers a large number of cases which have heretofore been ruled out by the Second Auditor as irregular.—Grand Army Journal, Washington, D. C.

MORE than one hundred thousand persons annually die in this country from Consumption, which is but the child of Catarrh. $500 reward is offered by the proprietor of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy for a case of Catarrh which he cannot cure. Sold by druggists, or send sixty cents to Dr. R. V. Pierce, 133 Seneca street, Buffalo, N. Y. and get it by mail. Don't get swindled by men calling themselves Dr. Sage; Dr. Pierce is the only man now living that has the right and can prepare the genuine and original Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, and his private U. S. Government Stamp is upon the outside wrapper of every package of the genuine.

BOOKS.—The public are invited to call at the new Book Store and News Room of James Welch, corner of Bishop and Allegheny st. Like a phoenix it has risen from its ashes, but too hastely to have made its toilet. It is not a "model" either in design or execution. It simplymeans 'biz' and those who are in need of anything usually kept in such a store, will find it here and at prices such as no mere "model" may hope to imitate.

S. S. CONVENTION.—We were in error last week in stating that the Hublersburg S. S. Convention would be held on the 26th day of August. We should have said the 29th day of July. Remember therefore that the convention composed of the Sunday Schools of Howard Borough, Marion, Howard and Walker twps., will meet in the church at Hublersburg on the 29th inst., (Saturday next) at 10 o'clock, A. M.

WITHOUT A NEWSPAPER.—Nothing presents a sadder commentary upon the present unhealthy condition of our once loved and prosperous country than the large number of families, both in town and country, but more especially in the latter, that subscribe to no paper of any kind. Hundreds and thousands of families are thus growing up in utter ignorance of what is transpiring in the world around them—and ignorant of the mighty events of the day.

But who can tell the vast amount of injury that is being inflicted upon the rising generation—those who are to take our place in the busy world at no distant day—growing up without any knowledge of the present, the past, or any study of the future, this ignorance, too, being imbued into them by the sanction of those who should, and doubtless do, know better, did they only think of the injurious effects of their insane course. Let the head of every family think of this, and place in the hands of those for whom he is responsible, the means of acquiring a thorough knowledge of the moving panorama in which we enact our different parts.—Exchange.

NEW SCRUBBER.—S. A. Gibson & Co., have truly earned the friendship and good will of all the house-keepers in this great country of ours, in as much as they have invented a scrubbing brush and dryer, that surpasses anything of the kind we have ever seen. It saves more than half the labor, it prevents all pains in the back so prevelant when the old plan of scrubbing is practiced. Everyperson should have one of Gibson & Co's., new brushes. We understand that they want a few good Agents in this county, as it is their intention to have every store in the county supplied with them. Address S. A. Gibson & Co., Tyrone, Pa.

DISTINGUISHED ARRIVALS.—Hon. F. Jordan, Secretary of the great Commonwealth of Penna., arrived in our town on Monday evening last. He is stopping at the Bush House. He is a great and good man.....Rev. J. H. Barnerd, former pastor of the Presbyterian church of this place, arrived in the 11 o'clock train on Tuesday last and remained over until the departure of the 4 o'clock, P. M., train. His arrival reminded us of a grand ovation, his friends in great numbers gathering around him and vieing with each other as to who should have the first shake of his friendly hand. Rev. Barnerd, is a first class preacher and a true patriot.

TIN AND SHEET IRON STORE.—Wm. S. Wolf & Sons at their well known Tin and Sheet Iron Store, on Allegheny street opposite the residence of the Hon. Jas. T. Hale, dec'd, continue to defy all competition. By reference to their advertisement it will be seen that Wm. S. Wolf the senior partner, is one of the oldest resident mechanics of the town and has gained for himself a reputation for honesty and upright dealing truly enviable. Persons wishing Tinware, or farmers wishing spouting for their houses and barns will do well to apply to Messrs Wolf & Sons.

THANKS.—Our thanks are due W. F. Warburton, Esq., 430 Market st., Phila., for another of his inimitable hats. We were not looking for it. We were taken by surprise, and, therefore we value the gift the more highly. Mr. Warburton's card will be seen in another column of the REPUBLICAN, and we have no hesitancy in saying that he makes the best hats, and is one of the most energetic and enterprising dealers, in the city. Do not forget the name W. F. Warburton and the number 430 Chestnut st., Phila.

ENTERPRISE.—Men like Messrs. Ruhl & Gault deserve the encouragement and patronage of every housekeeper in the county. They spare no pains to accommodate every person who favors them with a call, and every day they are receiving fresh supplies from the city. Hams, cheese, syrup, groceries, canned fruits, as well as everything usually kept in a well arranged grocery, can be had at their cheap store. Be sure to call and examine for yourselves.

THANKS.—Our thanks are due Messrs. Henry & Aaron Scholl, for a handsome coverlet one of the finest we have ever seen. The Messrs Scholl are perfectly responsible men, having a large interest in the Williamsport Woolen Mills, one of the very best establishment in the country. These gentlemen are now traveling through the county selling coverlets, Satinetts, Casimere, Blankets &c., &c., of the very best quality. We know these gentlemen well, and again say, they are perfectly reliable.

CHEAP GOODS.—J. D. Miller assuresus that he sells goods, groceries, &c., cheaper at his store at Pleasant Gap, than they can be sold in Bellefonte. His rent and taxes are much cheaper and the cost of living less, consequently he can afford to sell cheaper than the Bellefonte merchants. This is his theory. Give him a trial.

CHEAP COAL.—C. T. & J. R. Alexander, full of enterprise and energy have determined that the people of Bellefonte and Centre county shall have cheap coal. To this end they have established a coal yard contiguous to their lime kilns, where they will constantly keep a large supply of the best anthracite coal. Will the consumers of coal take notice?

A TRIP TO THE MOUNTAINS.

BELLEFONTE, CENTRE CO., PA., July 10, 1870.

Dear Mercury:—Last Wednesday we concluded to lay aside all business cares and hie to the mountains, and at 7:40 P. M., we found ourselves seated in one of the cars of the P. C. R. R., rolling along towards the point of our destination—Bellefonte, Centre county, Pa. Nothing of interest occurred until we were aroused by the porter on the P. and E. R. R., near Lock Haven, the next morning to change cars on the Bald Eagle Valley Railroad, which were to take us to Bellefonte. We gazed, as we rode along, upon the beauties of nature, which have been so lavishly bestowed upon this portion of the State. After a ride of a few miles, we reached this place, and quietly settled ourselves for a rest at the Bush House, before starting out to enjoy the scenery in which this portion of the State is so replete. As the Christian Pilgrim sallied forth to view the beautiful pools which surround Jerusalem, so we went out to behold the fount from which the place derives its name. It is situated at the base of one of the hills on which the town is built—for, like ancient Rome, it is noted for being built upon hills,

"From whose throne beauty seeks the world."

Its scenery is grand; its loveliness unsurpassed. A pure crystal fountain springs forth from the limestone rock, forming one of the largest, clearest and lovliest springs upon which it has been my pleasure to gaze, it being fully forty yards in diameter and six feet in depth, boiling up in a dozen different places like a seething, bubbling cauldron, forming a body of the coldest and purest of water in quantities sufficient to supply the whole city of Philadelphia. Near it rises a beautiful mound, upon which is a rock containing a seat, said to be formed by the impression of the immortal Talleyrand who, during a visit to this place, became so enamored of the spring that he sat upon the rock, lingered and looked upon the spring until a seat was formed in the rock, which is called the natural seat of Talleyrand. I do not wish to spoil a good story. The mound and rock both exist; but I doubt if Talleyrand ever visited the place.

A more probable story, related to us by one of the oldest of the inhabitants, was that Logan, the warrior chief, and one hundred of his braves, lie buried there; hence the mound.

After leaving the spring and mound we paid a visit to Half Moon Hill, which overlooks the town and surrounding country, from the top of which we could take in at one view the entire town. It awoke to our mind that beautiful verse:

"Could I but stand where Moses stood,
And view the landscape o'er.
Not Jordon's waves nor death's cold flood,
Should fright me from the shore."

My impression is, however, that Moses never gazed upon a sight half so lovely. If he had, he would not died so soon; for this is a very healthy place and people here live to an exceedingly old age. From this point we viewed the court-house; back of it lies the public green, on which stands the jail; and to our left the Presbyterian, Episcopalian, Reform and Methodist churches, and the school house, containing eight seperate departments or schools. All of the structures in architecture will compare favorably with any which Philadelphia contains.

The beautiful residence of Robert Valentine, built of white mountain sand stone, is one of the most costly private residences in the State. Contiguous to this are the beautiful residences of E. M. Blanchard, S. T. Shugert, John P. Harris, Charles McCafferty, Bond Valentine, Daniel Rhodes, the gentlemanly superintendent of the Bellefonte and Snow Shoe Railroad; also, a beautiful private residence, being erected by Robert McKnight for S. S. Lyon, Esq., together with a dozen other residences, the names of the owners of which we have not space to give. On our right arises to view the tall spire of St. John's Catholic Church, the Lutheran Church, the splendid residences of Henry Brockerhoff and D. G. Bush, Esq., the unique residence of Thomas R. Reynolds, the beautiful residence of J. S. Sommerville, the new and costly residence of Andy Curtin, ex-Governor and U. S. Minister to Russia, the fine residence of W. P. Wilson, Esq., the business houses of Harper Bro., Keller & Musser, Hoffer Bro's, Loeb, May & Loeb, Young & Devling, Ruhl & Gault, A. Sternberg, J. W. Cooke, Zeller & Jarrett, Linn & Wilson, Irwin & Wilson, J. & J. Harris, together with the Bush Arcade, filled with numerous stores and nearly all of the business houses of the town. A little more to our right is formed the junction of Spring creek, Logan's branch, and the water which flows from Bellefonte spring, forming a large and magnificent creek which is called Spring creek, flowing through the heart of the town, and emptying into the Bald Eagle creek, two miles below.

Upon these streams stand the forges, furnaces and mills of Valentine, Milliken & Co., the large flouring mill and foundry of Major W. F. Reynolds, the foundry owned by Col. George A. Bayard, the extensive foundry and machine shops of Mr. W. P. Duncan, the flouring mill of J. M. Wagner & Co., the Bellefonte Glass Works, where the best glass in the United States is manufactured, now under the supervision of Jacob V. Thomas, Esq.; the new and splendid wire mill recently erected by the young Messrs. Valentine and S. S. Lyon; the extensive furniture establishment of Samuel Williams, Esq.; together with a planing mill, shingle mill, and a number of other manufactories.

Numerous as the manufactories are, it is passing strange that there does not exist double the number; for Bellefonte is not surpassed in her water power in the United States. Yet we must not forget to mention that another large glass works, also a large wire mill is in course of construction by the young Messrs. Valentine, Lyon & Co., which company, we understand, has secured a contract for 600 tons of telegraph wire.

But it is impossible—much as I might wish to do so—to mention all of the material interests of Bellefonte and its surroundings. We must not forget, however, while standing upon the highest point from which we have taken in at one view this whole scenery, to mention the Bush House, standing at the base of Half Moon Hill. First, however, permit me to say that D. G. Bush, Esq., after whom the house was named came to this county in 1856, poor and penniless. By his own superior intellect, tact and financial ability, he is now, to say the least worth five hundred thousand dollars. Mr. Bush has built more houses of a substantial character, and has done more to build up the town than any of the old resident capitalists of the place!

Now for the Bush House, which is the emanation of the brain of D. G. Bush, who, after conceiving the idea and feeling the want of a first class hotel, associated with him self Frank McClain, a first class carpenter, and who, like Mr. Bush, worked himself up to affluence and wealth. Together they erected and furnished the Bush House of which Mr. McClain is now the proprietor. This house contains about two hundred large and nicely furnished rooms, has about seventy regular boarders, and is in all respects a first class hotel, not excelled by any in Pennsylvania.

Without fulsome praise or desire to occupy too much of your valuable space, permit me to say that Frank McClain and his amiable lady, have no superiors as hotel-keepers in the State. This house, erected as it is upon the bank of Spring Creek, the beautiful stream spoken of above, the disciples of Isaac Walton can sit on its verandahs and catch the speckled beauties with which that stream abounds. Opposite the Bush House is the McClain block, a large three story brick building erected by Messrs. Bush & McClain, in which is located the model book store of John I. Rankin and the shoe store of John Powers, together with many other stores. The inhabitants of the place are noted for their hospitality and geniality, their liberality for charitable and religious purposes, and their general intelligence. Among the men of sterling integrity, with whom I met was Col. W. P. Wilson, J. H. Orvis, James H. Rankin, James Macmanus, J. G. Love, John T. Johnston, P. M.; R. B. Barger and W. W. Brown, L. L. D., of the Bellefonte Republican, and J. W. Furey, editor of the Bellefonte Watchman.

Before bringing this to a close, permit me to speak of the common schools of Centre county and their excellent Superintendent, Professor Magee. The Professor is a man of superior attainments, giving his entire attention to his business, and to him, more perhaps, than to any one else, Centre county is indebted for the prosperity of her public schools.

If it were not that I have already trespassed upon your valuable time and space, I would speak of the coal and iron interests of Centre county; but I will reserve that for my next.

BANTAM.

IF the present arrangement is carried out, the Atlantic and Great Western Railroad will pass into the hands of a new company with General McClellan President. The sale of the property in New York and Pennsylvania last week was in accordance with the scheme, and without opposition, but it is expected that at the sale in Akron, to-morrow, there will be a contest. It is rumored that should the new company succeed in their plans, the road will be changed to the narrow-gauge, and that the reduction of the Erie also to the same gauge is contemplated.—Pittsburg Commercial 25th inst.

CONVALESCENT.-Our mutual friend and well known Grocery Merchant, Wm. Wainright, Jr., 505 Market st., Phila., we are sorry to say has been very ill, indeed, for the last few days. We sincerely hope he may improve speedily, as he is a good clever fellow, and good business man. He has the sympathies of the town.

Since the above was written we are happy to learn that he is convalescent.

MARRIED.

PASS THE BRUTE AROUND.

On the 26th of last month a little child of Mr. Henry Detweiler died, and the father, not owning a plot in the Phillipsburg Cemetery, had its remains interred in that portion of the cemetery for single graves. The charge for interment of a child, including the diging of the grave is four dollars, which amount the superintendent of the cemetery, one Peter Lerch, demanded of Detweiler the day after the funeral. The afflicted parent did not have the amount of money with him, and in consequence was unable to meet the demand, whereupon Lerch abused Detweiler most shamefully, and informed Messrs. Winters & Brothers, in whose employ Detweiler is, that if the bill was paid by the following day he would disinter the child and set the coffin outside the cemetery. Mr Winters told the brute that he should write a receipt, and he would pay the claim, as he did not want Mrs. Detweiler to hear of his inhuman threats. To this proposition Lerch made no reply, but jumped into his wagon and drove off. Later in the day Winters again saw Lerch, and asked for the bill and receipt. Lerch, failed to present the bill, for the reason, probably, that he was ashamed of himself; but on the next day he called upon the overseer of the poor, and informed him that the remains of the child would be thrown out of the cemetery, unless the bill was paid by 3 p. m. of that day, and left a receipt to be handed to Mr. Winters in case he should call. Incredible as it may seem the brute did actually disinter the corpse and set it outside the fence. After the accomplishment of this noble deed, he presented himself to the overseers of the poor and unblushingly related what he had done. Mr. Winters paid the demand, when Lerch returned to the burial ground, placed the corpse of the little one upon a wheel barrow, and unfeelingly dumped it in and again covered it up. We are pleased to learn that the citizens of Philipsburg are giving the affair a thorough investigation, and should the facts of the case be found as represented, legal proceedings will be instituted, provided the statute books contain any law that will reach a brute of such low degree.—Easton Express.

DIED.

At his residence in Boggs township, on Friday the 21st inst, Mr. Austin Curtin in the 70th year of his age.

Mr. Austin Curtin was born in Bellefonte, August the 26th 1801, and as above stated, died at his residence on the 21st inst. His remains was followed to the grave by the largest funeral procession ever witnessed in Boggs township, thus proving that a man who lives uprightly and deals justly with his fellow men will be honored not only while living but after the vital spark has fled. Mr. Curtin was a true man, a kind neighbor, generous and open hearted, beloved and esteemed by all who knew him. Mr. Curtin was a brother of the Messrs. Curtin Proprietors of the Eagle Iron Works and half brother to Ex. Gov. A. G. Curtin and present U. S. Minister to Russia.
